

New Theology Review is accepting manuscripts and proposals for a theme issue on Ecology and Theology for its March 2014 issue. Deadline is November 1, 2013.

One of the main activities of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) is the preparation of comprehensive assessment reports about the state of scientific, technical and socioeconomic knowledge on climate change, its causes, potential impacts and response strategies. Since its inception in 1988 the IPCC has prepared four multivolume assessment reports. Each assessment report is composed by three working groups. It was primarily the 4th Assessment Report (2007) that alerted the Church and the world to the serious challenges human-induced global warming and climate change pose to all of us.

The Fifth Assessment Report (AR5) will provide an update of knowledge on the scientific, technical and socio-economic aspects of climate change. It will be composed of three working group reports and a Synthesis Report (SYR). AR5 will be published in three parts as follows: The Physical Science Basis, 23-26 September 2013; Impacts, Adaptation and Vulnerability, 25-29 March 2014; and Mitigation of Climate Change, 7-11 and 13 April 2014. It is anticipated that it will show more graphically than ever, the necessity for immediate and drastic changes in CO₂ levels; indeed, the very existence of human beings is at stake. (See <http://www.ipcc.ch/>)

New Theology Review is a Catholic online, open-access journal of theology and ministry published by the Catholic Theological Union through the Paul Bechtold Library. Its mission is to serve the Church by providing, through the publication of articles, a forum for theologians and pastoral ministers to engage the Catholic tradition in respectful, constructive, and critical dialogue. Its primary intent and direction is to promote a deeper understanding of the Christian faith and the mission of the Church.

All articles must conform to our submission guidelines, which may be found at:

<http://newtheologyreview.org/index.php/ntr/about/submissions#authorGuidelines>.

New Theology Review follows a double-blind peer review process. For additional information, please visit the journal's website: <http://newtheologyreview.org>